Comments

We hope you enjoyed the event. It is a challenge to make such a simple area interesting for seasoned orienteers (who on this occasion made up 100% of the attendees). Hopefully we managed to do this and maybe some of you even learnt a thing or two. We were glad we were able to catch some of you out with our decoy controls in any case!

It is interesting how reliant we sometimes are on control codes, whilst describing a controls location over the radio really challenges our powers of description and visualisation, even if some competitors chose to blame the technology!
